AMERICAN CLAN GREGOR SOCIETY, INC. COUNCIL MEETING OCTOBER 29, 1993

A meeting of the Council for the American Clan Gregor Society was called to order by Chieftain George McGregor at 09:00 hours on Friday, October 29, 1993 in Room 220 of the Sheraton Charleston, Charleston, South Carolina.

The invocation was given by Chaplain Horatio Richardson. New members of the Council introduced themselves. The minutes of the prior meeting were approved as corrected.

The report of the Treasurer, Robert F. MacGregor, was accepted as presented.

Mrs. Herschel Browne, the Registrar, reported twenty-three new members. Her report was accepted and the Council thanked her for her years of effort.

Historian Helen Garrett's report was accepted as read.

The Librarian, Mason Lummis, reported that the University of Baltimore had been selected as the repository of our material. The Council voted to allow the Chieftain to sign the contract to effect this change.

The succinct Trustees' report was given by E. Phillips Grier and accepted.

The Assistant Chieftain's report was accepted.

The Chieftain's address was directed towards the following new business:

The Council approved funds to effect the physical removal of the library and Registrar's material to their respective new locations.

The Council voted an appropriation to prepare a new recruitment brochure.

It was moved and seconded to invest in a new copier to replace the present broken-down one.

The report of the Long Range Planning Committee appointed by Chieftain George F. McGregor and comprised of John K. Bellassai, Diane G. Browne, L. B. Magruder, Jr., James B. MacGregor, Jan A. MacGregor, Robert F. MacGregor, Jr., William E. McGregor, Dr. Thomas M. McNish and Paul C. Gregg was presented by Chairman John K. Bellassai. Their recommendations were acted upon by the Council as follows:

Several Committees of the Council and other Society members shall be created and given short-term charges and missions, in order to assist the Chieftain, Assistant Chieftain and Registrar to carry out their duties. It is anticipated that the Chieftain, Assistant Chieftain, Registrar and/or other officers of the Society will serve on and possibly chair each of these various Committees. The new Committees of the Society should be, but are not limited to, the following:

(a) Site Selection and Program Development for the AGM and Annual Gatherings.

(b) Publications

(c) Membership Recruitment and Retention

(d) Genealogical Services

(e) Youth Affairs

(f) Cultural and Educational Activities

(g) Technology Applications

(h) Bylaws Revisions

It was voted to reactivate the Newsletter with Ronald McGregor of Aurora, Colorado as Editor.

It was voted to revise the Society's existing Brochure to make it more readable and visually appealing. Assistant Chieftain reported this has been done.

It was voted to place membership recruitment ads for the American Clan Gregor Society in selected Scottish-American publications. Regular ads should appear in THE HIGH-LANDER and THE SCOTTISH BANNER. Joe Tichy reported that this has been done.

The recommendation to develop and broadly distribute a visually appealing new membership recruitment packet was referred to the Membership Recruitment and Retention Committee.

The proposal to modify and simplify the existing Application for Lineal Membership, in order to make it more user-friendly and visually appealing, was referred to the Membership Committee.

The recommendation to organize and sponsor more regional and local area social events for MacGregors — both current ACGS members and prospective members — was referred to Committee.

The recommendation to create an automated genealogical data-base for the ACGS, utilizing appropriate IBM PC-compatible software, was referred to the Technology Committee.

The recommendation to carefully review the pros and cons of the 152 existing genealogical software packages now on the market and select the one that will best meet the needs of the ACGS was referred to the Genealogy Services and Technology Application Committee.

The proposal to hold a Genealogy Workshop at each Annual Gathering for those ACGS members interested in attending was referred to the Genealogy Committee.

The recommendation to involve youth (ages 18 and below) and young adults more directly in the affairs and sponsored activities of the Society was referred to the Youth Affairs Committee.

The proposal to offer short-term, non-academic grants (mini-scholarships) and prizes to children of ACGS members, and possibly other talented Scottish-American youth, in designated subject areas, such monetary awards to be based on merit, not need, was referred to the Youth Affairs Committee.

The recommendation to, if at all possible, make academic scholarships under the existing Harry & Edith Blunt Scholarship Fund awarded to children of ACGS members based on merit, not on financial need, was referred to the proper committee.

It was voted to restore the traditional Chieftain's Thursday evening social reception for Council Members only, at the Annual Gathering.

The proposal to act immediately to adopt the recommendation of the Assistant Chieftain and the Librarian to house the archives and records of the ACGS at the University of Baltimore in Baltimore, MD, for the foreseeable future, provided satisfactory terms and conditions can be negotiated, has been acted upon.

The recommendation to expand the stated "Objects" (purposes) of the Society, as contained in Article II, Section I of the Bylaws, to explicitly include certain other worthy purposes which, when taken together with the three existing "purposes" or "objects", will form a comprehensive Mission Statement for the Society, one which is primarly outward-looking, was referred to the Bylaws Committee.

GENERAL MEETING October 30, 1993

The 84th Annual General Meeting of the American Clan Gregor Society was held in Cotillion Room A of the Sheraton Charleston Hotel, Charleston, South Carolina, on October 30, 1993. Chieftain George F. McGregor called the meeting to order at 09:30 hours.

The invocation was given by Chaplain Horatio Richardson. He asked the Lord to help us in our efforts at this crucial point in the affairs of our Society.

The report of the Scribe, Malcolm G. MacGregor, was accepted as read.

Treasurer Robert F. MacGregor reported that our funds have increased during the past year.

Mrs. Herschel M. Browne reported that we gained twenty-three new members over the past year — more than twice as many as we obtained the year before. New members or those attending a Gathering for the first time were introduced: Jeffrey and Frieda McGregor, David and Susanna McGregor, Gerald Skinner, Donald and Audrey Gregg and Hallam and Cathy Walker.

Historian Helen Garrett reported four births and eight deaths and asked all members to notify her of such changes in their immediate families.

Peg Tichy read a tribute to departed stalwart Lou McGregor and detailed her years of service to the Society. At the conclusion of her remarks a moment of silence was observed in honor of Lou and the other members who had passed away this preceding year.

Editor Lillian Magruder assured us that the late Yearbook will be in hand before November ends. She asked that any material to be included in the next Yearbook be sent to her before February, 1994.

Librarian Mason Lummis elucidated on the details of the plan to establish our Library at the University of Baltimore.

Patrick Bierer gave the Trustees report. He read letters of thanks from two of our scholarship recipients, and stated that our accounts have been growing.

John Bellassai reported for the Long Range Planning Committee and gave some background for the action taken by the Council the previous day. His report was accepted with thanks. Assistant Chieftain Joe Tichy reported that we now total 616 active members. He commented on the idea of renewing the Chieftain-Council reception next year and suggested that it be limited to one hour. Mentioned also was the fact that donations to the Charity and Education Fund are tax deductible and that this fund helps all MacGregors in need.

Joe Tichy announced that the 1994 Annual Gathering will be held at Sarasota, Florida on November 3, 4 and 5, and that Malcolm and Barbara MacGregor will be the Chairmen.

Joe Tichy asked for volunteers for the job of Scribe.

The Chieftain thanked Mac Passano for his aid in effecting the Library transfer.

There was no new business and no unfinished business.

The report of the Nominating Committee, headed by William E. McGregor, was as follows:

This slate was unanimously elected.

Rob Roy MacGregor and Edward M. Passano were elected as Trustees.

Chieftain George F. McGregor introduced the new officers to the meeting and asked for volunteers to fill chairs on the Council.

The meeting adjourned at 10:40 hours.

Respectfully submitted,

Malcolm G. MacGregor, Scribe

A MEMORY OF LOU McGREGOR 1916 - 1992

From time to time we have seen, in the Yearbook, a short article reminding us that many associate members have been highly involved in the activities of the Society.

One such member was Lou McGregor, who passed away last November.

Lou joined the Society in 1970. In the twenty-two years since then, she served the American Clan Gregor Society professionally as Dr. Mary Lou Rutledge, our Surgeon, for fifteen years, and as Lou McGregor, active member. During those years she initiated and chaired the two very successful cookbooks, helped the Chieftain reorganize the duties of the State Deputy Chieftains, co-chaired the MacGregor Tent at Grandfather Mountain Highland Games and the MacGregor party after the Games. In addition, she served on numerous Gathering committees.

Lou loved a good party and hosted many of them when Bill was Chieftain. After her retirement from her medial practice, she and Bill organized and directed many tours, including three to Scotland for the Society.

She was a great lady, a good friend, and always fun to be with!

WINFIELD SWIFT MAYNE 1915 - 1993

Winfield S. Mayne, Clan No. 1682, died January 10, 1993. He was born October 31, 1915, in Council Bluffs, Iowa, the son of Winfield Verner Mayne and Helen Swift Mayne.

From 1945 to 1949 he was President and part owner of Harvey Manufacturing Company of Racine, Wisconsin. From 1949 until 1991, he was Chairman of the Board and majority owner of the Montgomery County National Bank of Red Oak, Iowa. He served as a Director of the Thomas D. Murphy Company of Red Oak, Iowa, and the Iowa Bankers Association, and was a member of the Regional Advisory Board for the Comptroller of the Currency.

His many civic activities included serving as Chairman of the Murphy Memorial Hospital of Red Oak for 20 years. He was a lifelong member of the Episcopal Church, a 50 year Mason, 32nd Degree, and Shriner. He served American Clan Gregor Society as Treasurer for six years, and served as Trustee for a number of years until his death.

Win was married to Ann Gaynor in 1937. After her death in 1987, he later married Katherine Duncan. He is survivored by his widow, Katherine; one daughter, Lyn Schmausser, of Denver, Colorado; three sons, Winfield Mayne of Red Oak, Iowa; Joel H. Mayne of Stuart, Florida; and Mark R. Mayne of Canastota, New York; one brother, Robert Mayne, of Los Angeles, California; one Sister, Mrs. Betty Empkie, Clan No. 1914, of Longboat Key, Florida; and eight grandchildren.

HIGHLIGHTS OF THE 1993 GATHERING October 28-30, 1993 Charleston, South Carolina

Overlooking scenic Ashley River, the Sheraton Charleston Hotel was the site of our 1993 Gathering. Answering the Chieftain's call to "Gather, Gather, Gather," many of the Clan members arrived at the hotel on Thursday for an early Council meeting, and for an evening reception, where the sounds of greetings between old and new friends set the tone for another memorable meeting.

Friday morning is traditionally set aside for the work of the Clan, as the Council has a lengthy meeting on the business of the Clan, followed by a meeting of the State Deputy Chieftains. During this time others were working at registration, sales of Clan items and preparing for the events of the afternoon, the memorial service and the tour.

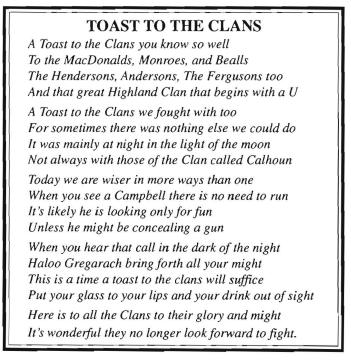

After lunch in the Rainbow Room of the hotel, about 150 clansmen and clanswomen boarded buses for a drive to the location of the memorial service. That service was held at historic Old Saint Andrew's Parish Church, located in Charleston County, South Carolina. Erected in 1706, this church is the oldest surviving church building in the Carolinas! Our Chaplain, the Reverend Horatio (Ray) Richardson, conducted the service in his customary impressive fashion. During the service, individual white carnations were placed in a wreath in memory of Clan members who had died since the last Gathering. To the accompaniment of a piper, the wreath was placed in the centuries- old church graveyard adjoining the church.

Leaving the church, we boarded our buses for the short trip to beautiful Magnolia Plantation, a 500-acre former rice plantation. It was acquired by the Drayton family in 1676, and is still owned by the Drayton heirs. The estate includes a 50 acre garden with 900 varieties of camellias, 250 types of azaleas and hundreds of other flowering species providing yearround bloom. We also toured the manor house, where plantation living since the Civil War is depicted. The estate tour included a petting zoo, a tropical garden, a biblical garden, topiary garden, nature trails and scenic overlooks above the Ashley River. Scottish mist began to fall as we boarded our buses for the trip back to Charleston.

After dinner we repaired to the Cotillion Room for the traditional Ceilidh. A group of Charleston educators enthralled us with songs from American musical productions. After a standing ovation and an encore, the sounds of the pipe band filled the hallways of the hotel. We all stood and applauded as they entered the room, and we were treated to a fine concert of pipe music. The pipe band "encore" was a march through the hotel restaurant and lobby, to the delight of the hotel guests and staff. It was fortunate that we had our tour on Friday, as Saturday brought change — rain. We had moderate periods of rain, with intermittent cloudbursts. However, the skirl of the pipes called us to the General Meeting, where the affairs of the Clan were reviewed and discussed, followed by luncheon at noon. That afternoon was one of varied pursuits. Some took this opportunity to go into unique, rainy Charleston, while others helped assemble table decorations for the banquet tables. Many of us attended the pipe band concert, moved indoors because of the weather. It had been planned for the park overlooking the Ashley River. Undaunted, the pipers and drummers did a great job — the hotel echoed with their wonderful tunes.

Preceded by the Daniel Randall Magruder reception, the banquet was the climax of our Gathering. Gentlemen in formal dress kilts were accompanied by ladies in equally striking formal dress — a scene to stir emotions in the most dour Scot. Dinner, the toasts, the wonderful 'Address To A Haggis' by Bill Garrett, the remarks from Assistant Chieftain Joe Tichy and those by Chieftain George McGregor, the playing of our pipe band, the singing of John Masterson — all this and more made for a unique and pleasurable evening. The culmination came with the singing of 'MacGregor's Gathering', during which each kilted man arose to place a foot on the table with sgian dubh (dagger) raised on high to sing again "MacGregor, despite them shall flourish forever."

So, we joined hands and sang "Auld Lang Syne" and promised to gather again in 1994, in Florida. But 'afore ye go' we had a last cup of kindness in the hospitality suite to say goodbye to friends and to agree again that Clan Gregor members, the 'Children of the Mist', are the greatest!

REPORTS OF STATE DEPUTY CHIEFTAINS 1993 Annual Report of the New York Chapter

This year I used the "Map to show the Districts inhabited by the Clan Gregor before the middle of the 18th Century" and highlighted the area on a "SCOTLAND Touring Map". Those visiting our tent or display were able to show me or those with them where in Scotland they were from or visited. It also showed how large an area the Clan MacGregor territory was.

The following is a summary of events at the games:

- June 6, 1993 Genesee County Museum at Mumford, NY We were provided with a table and chairs in a building and I put my sign up on the wall behind me. A young man stopped by, looked at it and said, "I'm proud to be a MacGregor."
- August 14, 1993 Central New York Scottish Games at Liverpool, NY

A wedding had preceded the games at Long Branch Park. After setting my tent up, two young people of MacGregor descent visiting here from England stopped by to show their appreciation and sign our guest book. Clan members Mark R. Mayne and Ellen also visited our tent. At the opening ceremony after we entered in the parade of tartans the Bride and Groom (guests of honor) were piped to the stage and the Bride announced she had been a regular in the dancing competitions in her younger days.

• September 4, 1993 Capital District Scottish Games at Altamont, NY

After setup of my tent George W. MacGregor, Chairman of N.E. Chapter of the Clan Gregor Society, visited and took a photo of me in front of it. Later I visited their tent and he took a photo of me in front there. Chris and Don N. McGregor from Clinton, CT stopped to visit. I participated in the parade of tartans in the opening ceremony.

September 18, 1993 Ninth Annual Scottish Festival at Amherst, NY

At Amherst Museum Colony Park I set up our tent, watched the sheep dog demonstrations, and participated in the parade of tartans of the opening ceremony. I helped someone looking for a first name used before the 16th Century for a story or play they were writing. Someone said years ago there were clan organizations and he was a member of the Clan MacGregor.

1993 Annual Report of Florida Chapter

October 15, 1992: Newsletter mailed to all Florida members, advising them of all upcoming Games and Scottish festivals in Florida, and urging them to attend and so to meet their fellow Society members.

November 14, 1992: Hosted a Society tent at Treasure Island Highland Games (St. Petersburg). Although this is a newer and smaller affair, we did have seven prospective members visit with us.

January 30-31, 1993: The Sixteenth Annual Orlando Scottish Highland Games was held and expanded to fill two days. These are the largest and best attended games in Florida and we did very well here. Society members at the Clan tent were: John and Virginia Terry, Paul Gregg, Jr., Robert Welliver, Jeff, Frieda and Jason McGregor, Gerald Skinner, James White and Mrs. Fred Empkie. Twenty qualified prospects were given information re: the Society and were sent follow-up letters shortly after.

March 6-7, 1993: Tenth Annual Scottish Festival & Games, Key Biscayune (Miami). Also expanded to two days. The tent was very busy and we made nine excellent contacts, which were also followed up.

April 3, 1993: Dunedin Scottish Highland Games. Newly-found member John Welliver and his wife Cheryl helped to person the tent, where we met three present members of the Society and garnered sixteen new prospects.

To the best of my knowledge, all of this activity has resulted in six new members and strong hope of at least four more.

Malcolm G. MacGregor State Deputy Chieftain Florida

1993 Annual Report of the Georgia Chapter

Chapter organization: At the Stone Mountain Highland Games this year, new member Paula Anderson Hinds agreed to be the factotem for the state chapter, including helping me with correspondence, adding a new social event (in addition to the Rob Roy birthday dinner), publishing a chapter newsletter, and helping me organize the phone numbers I have collected into a phone tree. The social event will be a party at my house aimed at attracting new members, including people who claim MacGregor descent but who need help with their genealogical research. We'll be using the visitor registers from Stone Mountain (CGS and ACGS, by mutual agreement) plus personal contacts to bring in prospective members. I cannot overemphasize the value to the chapter organization of both the acquisition of such a willing helper as Paula and the potential embodied in the proposed membership rule changes for attracting younger members.

Chapter news: I regretfully report that one of our most loved members, Mary Jack Grogan, passed away this year.

Recruiting: We have two events during the year where we can reach MacGregors who might be interested enough in their genealogy to apply. The Stone Mountain Highland Games has many new faces each year (these Games have a paid attendance in excess of 25,000). The Third Annual Rob Roy Dinner was well attended, and we are projecting that it will become a fund-raiser at some point.

Gathering: I am extremely pleased to be able to attend the Gathering for the second year straight. It is most important for us in Georgia to be able to participate in Clan activities on a national level, and, as I reported at the Council Meeting last year, it depends largely upon whether the Gathering and the Stone Mountain Games are held on the same weekend.

Stone Mountain Highland Games: We share a tent with the Clan Gregor Society. It is about like the tent at Grandfather Mountain — lots of food, well-attended, a good Parade of Tartans. For the fourth year, the ACGS and the CGS are co-sponsoring the trophy for the Adult Kilted Mile, designated simply as the Clan Gregor trophy. It helps our cause tremendously when ACGS members from other states join us and when we have the banner for the Parade of Tartans. We were all delighted that Col. George and Ann McGregor spent both days at our tent this year. It added a great deal of warmth as well as being helpful.

The Future: As I get to know more of our members personally, I believe that the sense of being part of a state-level organization will grow. Whenever possible, I try to get MacGregors to join or at least attend the Burns Club of Atlanta and the Atlanta St. Andrew's Society. Local cooperation with the Clan Gregor Society (now known as the Southeast Chapter) is excellent, and opportunities for cross-recruiting are growing. Each of the three years of the Rob Roy celebration, I have supplied the place (the Burns Cottage), the CGS has supplied the food (a real feast), and both organizations have shared the work.

Looking forward to seeing everyone at the Gathering in Charleston.

1993 Annual Report of the Southern California Chapter

This has been a busy year, starting in April with a journey North to meet Dr. MacGregor Hutcheson at San Francisco. We stopped in San Louis Obispo to attend the one day Pozo Whisky Games. This is a small event mainly to give the athletes an opportunity to loosen up for the season, sponsored by a 140 year old saloon in a cattle ranching community a few miles east.

Our main event in Southern California is the Memorial Day Weekend at Costa Mesa, well attended by 30,000 or more people. Next was the fairly new Games at Big Bear, not too well attended this year, as many people were no doubt afraid of a repeat of last year's earth quakes. August 7 and 8 we were in Northern California for the Monterey Games and the Chapter AGM. There was a good showing of MacGregor tartan at the Cabor Parade in Carmel on Friday, including Robert Everett, Clan No. 2350. We missed the Santa Rosa Games, but did present ourselves at the Northern California tent at Fresno later in September. A new Games event is scheduled in Glendale on October 9 with our second largest Games in the South at Loch Prado (formerly at Chino) on the 16th, getting a little too close together.

As you are aware, it is much easier for interested people to join the Chapters than the ACGS. Those who do not immediately qualify are urged to do some research with the Gatherings as a carrot. Dave Gilbert is one of these, an enthusiastic member who is our Liaison Officer to the Clans of the Highlands and performs several duties for them at their Loch Prado Games. He is looking forward to attending a Gathering as his work schedule permits. Another enthusiastic member, Carolune McGregor Long, who recently held the offices of Membership Chairman and Treasurer, is in the process of applying for ACGS membership and hopes to attend next year. I received a letter from former member Russel T. Magruder, requesting information as he had lost contact. I later met him at Monterey and he informed me that he was renewing and is very interested in the library. I have also received letters from two gentlemen named MacGregor asking for Clan information. I talked to one on the telephone and was informed he learned of us from a computer bulletin board. The other I am awaiting further communication.

LIFE AND MURDER OF LLOYD MAGRUDER, JR.

By Helen Wolfe, Washington, D.C.

Lloyd Magruder, Jr., the tenth child of Lloyd Magruder and Ann Holmes, was born at Locust Grove, the home of his grandfather, Major Samuel Wade Magruder, in Montgomery County, Md., on July 7, 1825. He was an orphan at eleven, as his mother died in 1835 and his father in 1836. His sister, Mary Catherine, and her husband, John A. Carter, took charge of the farm and the younger children. Lloyd attended the Rockville Academy. His letters show evidence of a good education. When Lloyd was twenty, he went to Batesville, Arkansas, to join his brother Charles, who had married and settled on a plantation near there. Lloyd took up surveying and later completed his law studies with Judge Baker. He married in Batesville, Carolina Pelham, sister of his brother Charles' wife.

When the gold rush to California began in 1849, Lloyd Magruder with his wife's uncle, Dr. Pelham, left in March of that year to seek his fortune. His outfit cost three hundred dollars. He made his way over land to join his brother, John Holmes Magruder, who had preceded him by sea, leaving New York in January, going around Cape Horn and arriving in San Francisco the end of June. The brothers met in Marysville, then the most flourishing city in the State. The death of John four year later in 1853 was a great grief to Lloyd.

Lloyd engaged in mercantile business, practiced law, was marshal of the county in 1854, clerk of the county, justice of the peace, and member of the Legislature in 1860. He made and lost several fortunes. One time he was entirely burnt out by a fire which swept the town. His family was with him in Marysville and later in Lewiston.

In April, 1862, Lloyd Magruder left Marysville for the Salmon River Mines in Washington Territory, Lewiston being his objective. His name is on the Luna House register on July 24, 1862. In the summer of 1863, he went farther, taking a large pack-train laden with merchandise to the Bannock Mines; thence to Virginia City in Montana, the metropolis of Alder Gulch, out of which was taken gold aggregating over a hundred millions of dollars.

Of Lloyd Magruder at this time, C. P. Connolly has written in a magazine article: "Magruder was one of the most popular men in the settlements. He had been a merchant at Lewiston, Idaho, and the Independent Democratic candidate for Congress. He combined in his character so many good and noble traits that he was generally esteemed and admired." Another says: "Magruder was a man of unimpeachable reputation and a packer of intrepidity." Magruder was credited with the honor of having been the first trail-maker into many of the famous mining regions of the Northwest. Having disposed of his goods, Magruder prepared to return to Lewiston with fifteen hundred ounces of yellow gold dust and over two thousand dollars in bills — the depreciated Union greenbacks — a fortune of some $30,000. He knew his wealth would put every road agent on his track; so he determined to travel with a party of four going in his direction. In addition, he employed as guards to help with the seventy-five mules and horses he was taking back for speculation, four men, Chris Lowry, Doc Howard (really David Renton), Jim Romaine and Bill Page. More than one honest man in the camp knew the character of the men engaged, but terror sealed their lips.

This was in early October and soon the passes would be closed by snow. The party pushed on and in six days were at a lovely camp near the bitter Root range. This was the point at which the helpers had planned to dispose of the party and escape with the gold. Bill Page was not one of the plotters, but on their offer to share a fourth with him, he agreed to keep hands off.

At ten o'clock on Sunday night, October 11, 1863, Magruder and Lowry were on watch. When Magruder was leaning over lighting his pipe at the fire, Lowry crushed his skull with an axe. The others were attacked and killed in their sleep. The dead men's bodies and the camp equipment were thrown into a deep canyon. Snow began to fall and covered up all signs of the camp. All but eight horses were taken into a canyon and shot. Doc Howard selected for himself a sorrel horse which had belonged to Magruder.

The four desperadoes made for the coast. They hoped to avoid Lewiston, Magruder's home, but the mountain streams were so swollen they could not be forded; and, being without provisions, the men were forced into the town. The animals were left at a ranch. The Snake River being in flood, the idea of a boat had to be given up in favor of the stage coach, which left in the morning. At the booking office, the men were asked for their names for the way bill. Howard hesitated and gave John and Joseph Smith and Thomas and James Jones. At this, Hill Beachy, deputy marshall of Lewiston, took a second look at the four men with coat collars turned up and hats drawn down. So many Joneses and Smiths struck Beachy as suspicious. He recognized the men as ones he knew had been employed by Magruder in Virginia City. He recalled a recent dream of his wife's in which Magruder had been struck down by an axe, and at once felt sure something was wrong. With no evidence, he could not detain the men. Later when a party from Virginia City reached Lewiston, it was learned that Magruder had left with Howard, Lowry, Romaine and Page. Magruder's horse and saddle were found at the ranch, the latter being identified by an Indian boy who had mended it. With this evidence Beachy started in pursuit.

In the meantime, the guilty men had obtained a good lead. At Portland it was found they had left by boat for San Francisco. The departure on the next one being uncertain, Beachy and his deputy determined to go overland, heading for Yreka, the nearest telegraph station. From there a wire was sent the police in San Francisco. The four were in jail when Beachy arrived with the necessary requisition papers.

The men were taken back to Lewiston, where there was difficulty in preventing a lynching. Through a hole cut into the room imprisoning the murderers much information was obtained. By trading on the terror or Page, a weakling, he was induced to turn state's evidence. He told the whole story and was set free, to die later in a brawl. Howard, Lowry, and Romaine were hanged March 4, 1864.

Hill Beachy succeeded in obtaining for the widow and heirs of Lloyd Magruder the $17,000 which the men had deposited in the mint in San Francisco.

When the news of the disappearance of Magruder and his fellow-travelers reached Virginia City, the wrath of the better element at this latest outrage played a large part in producing the sentiment which resulted in the organizing of the Vigilantes, who eventually broke up the gangs of bandits. The murder of Lloyd Magruder was a sad ending for a boy raised among the peaceful hills of Montgomery County, but those were days of high adventure.

INSTALLATION OF THE GOVERNOR OF EDINBURGH CASTLE

submitted by Helen MacGregor Garrett

The ceremony of installation of Her Majesty's Governor of Edinburgh Castle is held every three years, and this spectacular event took place on Friday, July 30, 1993.

It was a glorious summer evening and after a call from some of our Edinburgh friends we arranged to meet outside the Castle. I don't believe the ceremony is much publicized, but there are some seats available to the public on the North stand free of charge.

The appointment of Governor of Edinburgh Castle dates from the twelfth century, but little is known of the earliest post holders who were at different times known as The Constable, Warden, Keeper, Captain or Governor of the Castle. Since 1936 the appointment has always been vested in the General Officer Commanding the Army in Scotland.

From the earliest times the possession of Edinburgh Castle has been symbolized by the ceremonial presentation or delivery of the Key. The Governor of the Castle has always been responsible for the safety of the Key of the Castle, a duty he delegates to the Commander of the Edinburgh Castle Garrison.

There is nothing as stirring as to see the Castle gate open to the sounds of the Pipes and Drums, the Regimental Bands and the precision of the men in their red tunics and bearskin Busbies.

The Castle Garrison 2nd Battalion Scots Guards marched on parade to the tunes of Mairi's Wedding and Alma. They formed up with a Guard on each corner of the parade ground four Guards in all. Number one Guard was Malcolm G. C. MacGregor of MacGregor, younger. When we saw by our programme that Malcolm was number one Guard, we scanned the South stand and saw a proud Sir Gregor and Lady Fanny among the many dignitaries.

Her Majesty's Governor of Edinburgh Castle is Major General (Mike) M.I.C. Scott, CBE DSO General Officer Commanding the Army in Scotland. He is a distinguished soldier, having served in the Scots Guards since his commission in 1960.

The Governor arrived with his escort party; they were Sargeants and Colour Sargeants of The Royal Scots Dragoon Guards, Scots Guards, Royal Scots, Royal Highland Fusiliers, Princess Margaret's own Glasgow and Ayrshire Regiments, The Kings Own Scottish Borderers, The Black Watch, Queens Own Highlanders, Seaforths & Camerons, The Gordon Highlanders, The Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders, 52nd Lowland Volunteers, and a young representative of Queen Victoria School, Dunblane.

With the arrival of the Governor were the Lord Lyon, and Officers of Arms. The Governor was received with a General Salute and then he inspected the Parade.

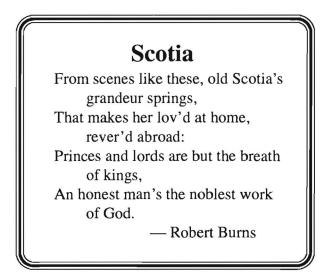

Her Majesty's Officers of Arms were Sir Malcolm Innes of Edingight KCVO WS, Lord Lyon King of Arms, John A Spens RD WS Albany Herald, Sir Crispin Agnew of Lochnaw Bt Rothesay Herald, Charles J. Burnett Ross Herald, John C G George Kintyre Pursuivant, Alastair Campbell of Airds Unicorn Pursuivant; magnificent in their Tabards and Regalia. The Installation Staff Officer was Major H D Clark of the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders.

The Lord Lyon has the main part of the Installation and summons the Commander of the Castle Garrison to open the gate and deliver the Key; this is done with great ceremony. The challenges and responses clearly heard as the Lord Lyon reads her Majesty the Queens Commission which ends with the Key being received and presented to the Governor. The Key brought on parade July 30, has been presented to reigning Sovereigns on ten recorded instances on the occasion of Royal Visits to the Castle.

After a Blessing by the Chaplain to the Governor, the Parade marched past and the Governor entered his Castle as the combined bands played "The Black Bear" and "Highland Laddie". As we were leaving, a man in front of us who had brought his young son observed "what a sight, we may not see the likes again." The amalgamation of some of the regiments is not welcomed by the Scots, especially by the men who have served in them.

We adjourned with the sights and sounds still ringing in our heads to a wee pub down the Royal Mile to digest all we had enjoyed so much.

MESSAGES FROM SCHOLARSHIP STUDENTS

EDITOR'S NOTE: We have received several letters of appreciation from scholarship recipients throughout the year. Printed below are three for your reading pleasure. It is a good feeling to know that we are able to help these deserving students.

"I was awarded the American Clan Gregor Society scholarship last fall to defray costs during my fall semester at the University of Virginia. Now at the end of the fall semester I should like to thank you again for your generosity.

"My semester as a graduate student in the Post-Master's Family Nurse Practitioner Program was quite successful. Most weeks I commuted daily from Salem to Charlottesville — a 4 hour round trip.

"Despite the travel & child care worries, I was able to obtain a 3.7 GPA. I believe the faith of your awards committee gave me the impetus to get on Interstate 81 for those daily commutes when the spirits were especially sagging! Thank you again."

Christina Stephenson

"I am writing to you as the recipient of American Clan Gregor Scholarship. I would like to thank you for making many opportunities available to me through these funds.

"As a student in the School of Nursing's Second Degree Program, I am a financially independent individual attempting to further my education in the health care field. I graduated from the University of Virginia in 1989 with a B.A. in Psychology. Since that time, I have explored several different areas of health care, including emergency care, neurorehabilitation, and case management. Specifically, I have worked as a Cardiac Technician, Child Care Services Coordinator for children with disabilities, and a rehabilitatiion specialist. I have refined my interests, and selected nursing as my profession. My long-term goal is to provide case management services to adults and children who have experienced injury or illness as a result of catastrophic events (such as a motor vehicle accident resulting in a brain or spinal cord injury). I believe strongly, based on research and reading in the field, that this is an area of great importance. I also have a personal interest in the field as the sister of an individual with a traumatic brain injury.

"It is difficult for me to convey adequately my appreciation for this award. I have been working 20 to 40 hours weekly while attending classes. Without this scholarship, I was facing the prospect of working additional hours to meet living expenses. I am very grateful to you for your support.

"If you have any questions or wish to talk to me personally, I can be reached at (804) 971-6525."

S. Deaton Mahanes

"I wanted to write you and The Clan to express my great appreciation for the generous award from the Magruder Scholarship fund I received at the beginning of this school year. As you may know, this is my last year at University of Virginia School of Medicine. With my wife enrolled in the School of Nursing, and my two young sons also embarking on school (at St. Anne's, where Evaline and Allaville Magruder and my grandmother all went many years ago) the scholarship makes a huge impact in our family budget.

"My future plans at this point include obtaining a residency training position in a Family Medicine program. I am looking at several positions in the East and far West, most with a rural flavor. One program I will be applying to is U. Va.'s, so there is a chance we will remain in Charlottesville.

"Unfortunately, this year's Clan gathering in Charleston, S. C. will come at a busy time for all of us. I regret that we will probably not be able to attend. I have happy memories of the other time we came to the festivities in Richmond.

"I appreciate all the mailings The Clan sends my way; they help keep me up to date on comings and goings and special events. Hopefully, sometime soon I will be able to bring my family to an event and show them why The Clan is such a fascinating organization.

"Again, many thanks for the support you and The Clan have shown me as I finish my medical studies."

ANCHOVIE HILLS by James C. Wilfong

Reprinted from "Calvert Independent", Prince Frederick, MD (submitted by Abie Proudfoot)

In 1936 when the Federal Government was combing the secondary roads of most of Maryland in the conduct of the Historic American Buildings Survey an old home was located in the Baden vicinity which later appeared in the published catalog as: "Anchovie Hills. Wood, one and a half stories, early 19th c. 3 photos." It was a picturesque old home with steep rooflines noted by three somewhat over-sized dormers cut in the front slope, only. A fine pair of outside matching chimneys rose above the very high roof ridge at the east gable end.

In 1951 in the course of a personal survey of County landmark properties Anchovie Hills was examined in considerable interest. Many changes had taken place in the fifteen-year interval. One chimney had disappeared and the topping of the other was gone above the roof ridge. A new structure had been erected in front of the HABS citation and the old was being abandoned to the elements. The basic structure, however, was intact.

Some history of the old place had been encountered, meanwhile and we were prepared to call the Survey's dating of Anchovie Hills of early 19th c. as being in error.

As the home of Alexander Magruder, first of the name in America, this had to date from the late 17th, not the early 19th century.

Little "Dunblane" on the Forestville-Westphalia Road had an authoritative date of 1723 and appeared in several sources as the second oldest Magruder home still standing, the implication being that Anchovie Hills was its senior.

Curiosity led to a visit at the Library of Congress and a review of the basic data from which the Survey catalog had been compiled. This dated Anchovie Hills as late 17th century rather that the 150 years later and it tied some fragments concerning the early Magruders together for a plausible explanation. Alexander Magruder had come to Maryland in the mid-17th century, settling in the general Nottingham area where he secured a grant in 1668 along the bank of the Patuxent in what would later be Prince George County.

The Magruders prospered and as they did, they created homes. Some of these survived on the local scene today to remind that in the wide range of architectural styling of our landmarks there is also the interesting study approach of family identification.

The Snowdens, the Berrys, the Clagets, the Ducketts, the Bowies and the Contees — these did not build them all, but there are structures enough associated with each to note each as builders of distinction.

The Magruder House in the heart of Bladensburg is believed to date from 1743, Mount Lubentia near Largo, was built as Castle Magruder in 1769. Dunblane was erected in 1723 and its loss through explosion the night of Good Friday, 1969, will be mourned by antiquarians for years to come. These were all Magruder homes to assure a proper niche among our early builders for this family, too.

Mrs. Effie Gwynn Bowie in her "Across the Years in Prince Georges County" included a wealth of material concerning the early Magruders in Maryland. Her approach, of course, was not architectural, but a number of references to Anchovie Hills appear.

The home of the name has puzzled for almost 35 years, now and at this late date a return visit to the Baden vicinity would seem to be in order. Some notes made in 1951 tell that near the old Magruder seat a family cemetery lies, overgrown with weeds and bushes but discernibly on the scene. Possibly a legible stone will tell, once and for all, whether the Magruder who sleeps beneath it was of the first or of a considerably later generation.

This home here which the Government surveyors unhesitatingly designated as Anchovie Hills is clearly very old. Is it older than the ill-fated Dunblane was, back in April 1969? A gravestone cannot prove the point, either way, but it might possibly offer some interesting evidence.

Carter and Peyton Johnson, Each With More Than 50 Years of Service, Rank as Deans of Little Rock Real Estate Dealers

(Reprinted from Arkansas Democrat, 3-31-1935)

For over a half century, in fact a period of time coincident with half the lifetime of Arkansas as a state in Federal Union, two Little Rock men, brothers, near the same age, have been continuously identified and active in the real estate business of Arkansas' capital city. Carter and Peyton Johnson, after 50 years as dealers and agents in land, stand today as the deans of real estate in this community.

With memories and associations deeply rooted in the past these two brothers still look forward to the further development of the city of their youth. It is only recently that Mr. Carter Johnson has ceased activity in his life work at the age of 79 — but brother Peyton, 15 months younger, 79 on the sixteenth of next November, still carries on, being associated with R. W. Polk Real Estate office in Little Rock. Both men are native born, the old home place having been on East Capitol avenue between Scott and Cumberland streets.

It was a mild spring day in the year 1874 — April 20 to be exact. Wild flowers in all their glory were in full bloom and blossom on the environs of the capital city of Arkansas. Cultivated beds with early varieties were showing freshly on this particular afternoon. There was an urge to the great out-of-doors. The struggling little town of Little Rock was just beginning to find itself again after prolonged occupation by Federal troops following the Civil War. Many of the disturbing conditions of the carpet bag regime were beginning to be modified.

Brooks-Baxter War Days

After all, the people were beginning to think, peaceful life might again be at hand. Into such an atmosphere and amid such propitious signs of seasonal rebirth a political disturbance had reached a climax. And the climax was in the form of imminent armed conflict. Elisha Baxter had been declared the newly elected governor by a substantial majority. His opponent, Joseph Brooks, supported by the then Republican bosses in the state, refused to concede defeat, and was preparing to back up his refusal by armed force. Followers of Baxter did likewise.

On the afternoon of April 20, 1874, a young man, then 17 years old, slipped a big "horse" pistol into his belt and went to the front of the old Anthony House, on East Markham between Main and Scott streets, at that time the city's leading hotel. "Governor" Baxter was going to speak from the balcony of the Anthony House. The young man with the big pistol joined all his fellow Democrats in support of Baxter, who although a Republican in name, was opposed to the carpet bag bosses.

The speaking at the Anthony House was the signal for the beginning of what is known as the Brooks-Baxter War. The young man with the big pistol was Peyton Johnson. It is not of record that he actually killed any one in that "war", and he was not hurt or wounded himself. But in the exciting days that followed he took part in the various skirmishes which threatened to become serious until President Grant intervened and Baxter was declared governor.

Sometimes it takes just such a threatened upheaval to give a young man a feeling that he is part of the community. Peyton Johnson dates his mature career from the Brooks-Baxter War. The wish for peace and permanent stability in the community was realized with the induction of Baxter as governor. The bedraggled little town began to have growing pains and Peyton with his brother Carter soon afterwards began their career as real estate men. The growing pains offered them the opportunity.

Lull Follows Troublesome Days

For a few years after the Brooks-Baxter War progress was slow in the capital of Arkansas. There was not much development outside of the old original city limits. A few visionary persons had predicted that the city might have a population extending beyond High street on the west. Some even ventured to predict that there would be city blocks south of the Blind School on Center Street.

Those who openly expressed this belief were few and far between. And Peyton Johnson admits that he was not among the first who visualized the growth of Little Rock to its present size. A realization of this fact, however, came to him in a rather peculiar way. To the manner in which it came to him, Peyton Johnson attributes his career in the real estate business.

The Missouri-Pacific Railroad, then the St. Louis Iron Mountain and Southern, had completed its line from St. Louis to Texarkana and had trains in operation in the early part of 1874. The right of way south of Little Rock from the Union Station was the same then as now. This seemed to be the farthest possible western limit of Little Rock's growth. It was for years a sort of dividing line between the city's suburbs and open country.

Peyton Johnson's father had bought a farm which lay in the area then bounded by May and Brown, Thirteenth and Eighteenth streets. Five acres also belonged to the family which lay across Thirteenth street between Johnson and Allis.

While the Johnson boys, Peyton and Carter, were still young men this farm was considered as being way out. From the farm as a base the boys organized their deer hunts. These led from the farm out toward the land surrounding the State Hospital and beyond to the present Fair park area. It is said on good authority that the young sportsmen of Little Rock could always bring home a deer from this area any time their young appetites craved a good piece of venison.

Death of Their Father

It was about the year 1885, so Peyton Johnson declares, that he returned from a deer hunt one afternoon and on getting back to the farm near Thirteenth and Johnson found several business men from Little Rock waiting to see him. His father had died and Peyton and Carter were in charge of family affairs.

The committee turned out to be the main stockholders and promoters of the new proposed street railway in Little Rock. The personnel of the committee as recalled by Peyton was as follows: John B. Jones, Booker Worthen, F. M. Fulk and Howard Adams — names familiar to old timers in recalling the development of Little Rock.

It seems that between 1881 and 1888 several attempts had been made to organize a company to operate a street railway. During the period between those dates several companies had started operations, most of them running cars on tracks and drawn by horses and mules. The company represented by the committee which had called on Peyton Johnson was more ambitious. It operated under the name City Electric Street Railway Company, and its charter provided that it could operate either electric or steam cars. At the particular moment when its sponsors waited at the Johnson farm it was being operated as a steam line. Its two diminutive steam locomotives, familiarly known as "dummies," were an inspiring sight as they made their journey from the downtown terminus at Second and Louisiana, following in general the Highland route of the present street railway until it got out into the country near Thirteenth and Railroad.

The Old Dummy Line

When Peyton returned from the deer hunt that particular day, John B. Jones, spokesman for the committee, informed Peyton that they had come out to see him about buying five acres of his farm as a part of a right of way for extension of the dummy line.

They visualized for him the possible extension of the line to what is known as Cunningham's Lake (on Rock Creek, near Twelfth Street), and that there would possibly be a summer resort for the fashionable of Little Rock at the road's outlying terminus.

Peyton and his brother Carter were not particularly interested in the resort idea to the west of them. What they did see at once was that modern transportation was at their door. The extension of the line to their farm would do for them what all real estate men dreamed of before the days of automobiles — give them transportation to downtown Little Rock, and make city property of their farm over night. They sold to the committee all that the sponsors wanted — five acres, price $135 per acre.

And that was the beginning in earnest of the real estate careers of these two men. Shortly after this the brothers opened up a city addition from the old farms. It is known on the plats today as the "C. and P. Johnson Addition." Next move made was to promote what is known as the Sidney Johnson Addition, in the same neighborhood but a little farther out. Mr. Peyton Johnson likes to recall that he made more net money on this transaction than any other he has handled. With downtown backing they bought the acreage at $80 an acre and sold it off in lots with an average of $150. That was between the years of 1885 and 1890.

Since then the two brothers — especially Mr. Peyton — have participated in perhaps 20 or more additions to Little Rock, all of them on the hills and heights west of the city.

When Options Were Common

He had a smaller part in a repeat of his first experience with the extension of the electric line to Pulaski Heights. Options were to be had in those days and sales made of acreage in what is known as Country Club district for an average of $15 per acre. Perhaps some of the home owners in that beautifully developed section wish that they could pay taxes on the basis of such a valuation.

During his more than half century of land activity around Little Rock, Mr. Peyton Johnson has seen values down almost to nothing — as in the period immediately following the Civil War — then rise and maintain a fairly steady basic value through all the intervening years, with increasing increment for the sites closer in.

His particular field in the real estate business has inevitably been in suburban development. Even now as he nears 80 years he still looks to the beautiful suburban sites farther out perhaps, but even more accessible than in his early days, and predicts that only a beginning has been made for Greater Little Rock.

FAMILY POETRY

submitted by Stephen Wayne Stokes

I found the following three poems in a homemade scrapbook which has been passed down in my mother's family for four generations. This little old curiosity book contains poems and newspaper clippings dating back to the 1850s.

To My Sister

We miss thee here. A link was torn From bright affections chain, When thou didst leave the happy home We shared in joy and pain.

We think of thee when morning bright Her rosy pathway takes, And from the slumbers of the night The brillant Day God makes.

We think of thee at twilight hour When vesper folds her wings, And Trophys from each closing flower A fragrant perfume brings.

We think of thee when bowed in prayer, Before our Fathers throne, We thank him for the bounteous care That he has oer us thrown.

Beckie J. Carter Pin Hook June 8th 1857

Beckie J. Carter's real name was Rebecca Johnson Magruder. She was the fifth daughter and thirteenth child of Lloyd Magruder and Ann Holmes. Beckie was born on January 4, 1832 in Montgomery County, Maryland and died on June 23, 1893 in the same county. On October 26, 1879, she married Robert Grant Davidson. Beckie was orphaned at age four and was raised by her sister and brother-in-law, John A. Carter, which perhaps explains why she chose to sign her name as Carter and not Magruder.

Peace be around thee wherever thou rovest May life be for thee one happy dream And all that thou wishest and all that thou lovest Come smiling around thy sunny way Of sorrow eer this calm should break May eer thy team pass off so lightly Like spring showers they'll only make The smiles that follow shine more brightly May time who sheds his blight o're all And daily dooms some joy to death O're thee let years so gently fall They shall not crush one flower beneath As half in shade and half in sun This world along its path advances May that side the sun upon Be all that e'er Shall meet by glances

A PIONEER OF A DIFFERENT KIND

submitted by Joe Tichy

Many of you have heard and enjoyed the music of our Piper, Dr. William Stokoe, bu maybe you don't know that he is world famous for his work with the deaf and in particula in the development and advancement of American Sign Language.

Sign language has lately become a scientific hot button. Only in the past 20 years have linguists realized that signed languages are unique — a speech of the hand. They offer a new way to probe how the brain generates and understands language, and throw new light on an old scientific controversy: whether language, complete with grammar, is innate in ou species, or whether it is a learned behavior. The current interest in sign language has roots in the pioneering work of one renegade teacher at Gallaudet University in Washington D.C., the world's only liberal arts university for deaf people.

When Bill Stokoe went to Gallaudet to teach English, the school enrolled him in a course in signing. But Stokoe noticed something odd: among themselves, students signed differ ently from his classroom teacher. Stokoe had been taught a sort of gestural code, each movement of the hands representing a word in English. At the time, American Sign Language (ASL) was thought to be no more than a form of pidgin English. But Stokoe believed the "hand talk" his students used looked richer. He wondered: Might deaf people actually have a genuine language? And could that language be unlike any other on Earth? I was1955, when even deaf people dismissed their signing as "slang." Stokoe's idea wa academic heresy.

It is 37 years later. Stokoe — now devoting his time to writing and editing books and journals and to producing video materials on ASL and the deaf culture — explains how he started a revolution. For decades educators fought his idea that signed languages are natura languages like English, French and Japanese. They assumed language must be based or speech, the modulation of sound. But sign language is based on the movement of hands, the modulation of space. "What I said," Bill explains, "is that language is not mouth stuff — it's brain stuff."

It has been a long road, from the mouth to the brain. Linguists have had to redefine language. Deaf people's self-esteem has been at stake, and so has the ticklish issue of their education. "My own contribution was to turn around the thinking of academics. When I came to Gallaudet, the teachers were trained with two books, and the jokers who wrote them gave only a paragraph to sign language, calling it a vague system of gestures that looked like the ideas they were supposed to represent."

Deaf education in the '50s irked him. "I didn't like to see how the hearing teachers treated their deaf pupils — their expectations were low," he says. "I was amazed at how many of my students were brilliant." Meanwhile, he was reading the work of anthropological linguists like George Trager and Henry Lee Smith, Jr. "They said you couldn't study language without studying the culture, and when I had been at Gallaudet a short time, I realized that deaf people had a culture of their own."

When Stokoe analyzed his students' signing, he found it was like spoken languages, which combine bits of sound — each meaningless by itself — into meaningful words. Signers, following similar rules, combine individually meaningless hand and body movements into words. They choose from a palette of hand shapes, such as a fist or a pointing index finger. They also choose where to make a sign; for example, on the face or on the chest. They choose how to orient the hand and arm. And each sign has a movement — it might begin at the cheek and finish at the chin. A shaped hand executing a particular motion creates a word. A common underlying structure of both spoken and signed language is thus at the level of the smallest units that are linked to form words.

Stokoe explained his findings on the structure of ASL in a book published in 1960. "The faculty then had a special meeting and I got up and said my piece," he says. "Nobody threw eggs or old vegetables, but I was bombarded by hostility." Later, the university's president told Stokoe his research was "causing too much trouble" because his insistence that ASL was indeed a language threatened the English-based system for teaching the deaf. But Stokoe persisted. Five years later he came out with the first dictionary of American Sign Language based on linguistic principles. And he's been slowly winning converts ever since.

Deaf children today face a brighter future than the generation of deaf children before them. Instruction in ASL, particularly in residential schools, should accelerate. New technologies, such as the TDD (Telecommunications Device for the Deaf) for communicating over telephones, relay services and video programs for language instruction, and the recent Americans with Disabilities Act all point the way to a more supportive environment. Deaf people are moving into professional jobs, such as law and accounting, and more recently into computer-related work.
