Rita Swann was the wife of Don Swann, Sr. and mother of Don Swann, Jr. She graduated from the Maryland Institute at the top of her class. She became a prominent newspaper woman starting on the Baltimore Sun and then on the editorial staff with the Baltimore News American for twenty-five years.

Mrs. Swann did a series of famous race horses and famous breeds of dogs which were quite popular. She died in 1967. After her death her son also began reissuing her work and signed her name to guarantee they were printed from the plates made by his mother.
